EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS OF THE JANUARY NUMBER.

"The January number of this magazine is beautiful mechanically, as well as secredingly interesting in 1's interary contents. New typerspits, a superior quality of paper, greater care in the press work, and a very superior class of wood engravings, brings up the International to a high stand of excelence. In the present number close is much original matter beside the best selected at the less foregaphicotions.

"This is the best number, so far, of this interesting and well managed mouthly. It has several excellent features. The department, "Authors and Books," is that which we always read first. In the number selore us we have three ar four freeh chapters of Mr. James "Story whoot's name," and the leading article is an other Med. C. Hall, most beaut fully illustrated with exquisitely executed wood rate, the first of which is a fine por rait of the great stateman and orator. Mrs. Hall's sketch is delightfully written, and of the Magazine that contains it octave on othing else it would be worth more than the price of the current number. "A drive about my negliborhood in 1850," by Mass Mattord, "The Old Governess," by Miss Martineau, "My Novel, by Bulwer—but why should wego onto copyline whole table of cortents." Read them, reader, for yourself. A richer has never been spread before you in a periodical shape."

"The January number of this work evenines many in stovements in contents and appearance. It is certainly one of the most bauntful periodicals that ever emanated from the American press."
